Third Big Waterfront Fire in N. J. In a Week

LINDEN, N. J., November 18.—(By the United Press)—One man was killed, seven are missing, three vessels were destroyed and damage estimated at $1,200,000 caused in a fire at the Sinclair Refining Company's dock last night, an unofficial check-up shows today.

WARREN, N. J., November 18.—(Firemen today were working in bitter cold, clearing away debris of the third great waterfront fire which has swept the New York harbor district in a week, causing property damage estimated at more than $4,000,000.

One man was missing, eight in hospitals and others suffering from minor injuries as result of the latest blaze which destroyed the Sinclair oil tanker William Boyce Thompson, a big barge and 87,000 gallons of gasoline with a loss of more than $700,000.

An explosion aboard the barge last night set fire to the gasoline around the tanker which was anchored alongside. The flames, fanned by a high wind, spread to the shore and reached the tanks of the Sinclair Company. The first tank in the pathway of the flames was destroyed with 8,000 gallons of gasoline, but employees drained other tanks and checked further spread of the fire.

Edward Sullivan, was shot four times and seriously wounded. He was eating with his back toward the entrance, when three men opened fire on him through a window. The bullets, shattering plate glass, drove patrons to cover.

Chief Healy said he believed the arrest of Lewis would aid in clearing up several crimes in the southern city.

Former French Premier, Convicted of Treason During The War, Granted Amnesty By Parliament

PARIS, November 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Joseph Caillaux, former premier who in October, 1919, was found guilty of having "impeded prosecution of the war" was voted amnesty today by the senate, 170 to 104.

The amnesty bill was adopted by the Chamber of Deputies last July. Louis Malvy, former minister of the interior, convicted of communication with the enemy during the war and banished from France for three years, was voted amnesty by 185 to 62.

Next to the Dreyfus trial, perhaps no case has excited wider interest or greater animosities among the people of France than the Caillaux case. Joseph Caillaux, financier and political leader, whose career as a statesman made him a figure of world prominence in the decade before the World War, became the butt of attack during the crisis of the middle period of the European war when he was accused of trying to bring a compromise peace with Germany.

The echoes of the shots from the pistol of the second Caillaux, which laid low Gaston Calmette, editor of L'Echo, who had made accusations of a personal nature in the political fight being waged against Caillaux as minister of finance early in 1914, had hardly died away before the outbreak of the war.

Reports began to come out soon afterward of mysterious activities by Caillaux which were regarded as not friendly to the war policies of the ministers in power. Caillaux was accused of various intrigues, involving correspondence with members of the enemy camp and upon the advent of Clemenceau to power, Caillaux was arrested and after a long delay tried on a charge of high treason by the high court of the senate.

Caillaux was acquitted on this charge but found guilty of the lesser offense in connection with which amnesty now has been extended. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and restricted to residence within prescribed areas for five years and the loss of civil rights for ten years.

As he had already been imprisoned a long time while awaiting trial, he was released shortly after his conviction, but remained subject to the other penalties imposed. The amnesty measure restores Caillaux to full civil rights. He now may run for parliament and hold office. Upon well informed authority it is said the government intends to make him financial adviser to the ministry of finance. He now is in splendid health, active and energetic and is declared by his friends by no means to have said his last word in French politics.

Stand Guard Over Aqueduct; Turn Water Into River

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., November 18.—(By the United Press)—Through a night and into the third day a band of determined men today stood guard beside the open waste gates of the Los Angeles Aqueduct while the stream, diverted from its artificial course toward the Owens River.

Unrelenting in the demand for a settlement from Los Angeles 200 miles to the south, in the dispute over the rights to the waters of the river, the men who opened the flood gates of the Aqueduct Sunday morning appear firm in their purpose today.

A second call for state troops has been sent to Governor Friend W. Richardson by Sheriff Collins.

THE SHOP-O-SCOPE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., November 18.—(By the United Press)—Fire razed two big Atlantic City hotels where members of the National Grange were stopping, killed a man and a woman, killed the front of the famous steel pier and threatened for a time to sweep the entire board walk before it was checked early today.

In the biting cold of early morning, the city's entire fire fighting force augmented by volunteer bucket brigades on the roofs, had saved the situation, but only after $750,000 damage had been caused and six persons overcome or injured.

The known dead: James Bennett, 80, New York City; Mrs. Mary Ellick, Southford, Penna.

The charred body of a woman, naked save for a pair of stockings, was taken from the still smoldering ruins of the Hotel Bothwell here today.

The dead woman was not identified immediately. Twelve persons, including Mrs. Mary Ellick, of Southford, Penna., were hurt, and several others injured in the blaze and were treated in hospitals today.

Atlantic City is host to the National Grange this week and evening entertainments were just at their height when the cry spread that a hotel in the closely crowded section where Virginia avenue runs into the board walk, was afire.

Many of the structures in the vicinity are of wood and in the moonlight dense clouds of black smoke could be seen pouring up from the Hotel Bothwell. Inside guests were scrambling wildly to escape, some of them attempting to bring possessions out with them, others being forced to hurry out in night attire.

The changing bells of arriving fire engines filled the narrow streets nearby. Thousands gathered as close as possible on the board walk.

Flames from the Bothwell leaped quickly to the Senator and while this hotel eventually was not completely destroyed, it seemed it could not be saved. The Senator's guests spilled out into the streets as the crackling flames took up their real course through the second hotel.

Florence Rescued Unconscious Guests. Meanwhile, firemen with blackened faces were staggering from the Bothwell carrying unconscious guests whom they had saved from the rapid sweep of the fire. Aerial ladders went up in slender silhouettes against the moonlight and the red glare of the flames and firemen went up and down these with other unconscious burdens.

The roar of the flames in the Bothwell and Senator sounded above the crashing of fire axes and hoarse shouts. (Continued On Page Six)

Gus Karger, Intimate Friend and Advisor of Presidents, Idol of Newspaper World, is Paid Honors

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)
(Copyright, 1924, By The Times Publishing Company.)

WASHINGTON, November 18.—With the president of the United States and a former president and chief justice, senators and members of the house in attendance, funeral services for Gus J. Karger, the most popular newspaper correspondent in Washington, were held yesterday.

Honors that might have been paid to a distinguished statesman or foreign envoy, tributes that came from every section of Washington's official colony marked the passing of a man who was perhaps known outside of his profession only to the people of a single city, Cincinnati, as the representative of the Times—Star, but his influence was greater than any of his colleagues.

As the confidant of presidents, as the leader of the newspaper corps in its standard of ethics particularly in relation to public men, Gus Karger might have had almost any office in the gift of a chief executive. But he preferred the unofficial standing of a newspaper correspondent, and inspired many of the younger men who came to Washington, after he died with a zeal for similar service.

Popular in Official Circles. Nowadays Washington correspondents are of two classes, those who devote all their time to the interests of a single newspaper and make their reputations in a single city, usually the one to which they have been educated and trained and those who write for wider audiences. In Washington they stand on an equal footing and each has the same opportunity to win the rewards that his colleagues can bestow. Gus Karger was elected to every office that the newspaper corps can fill. He was their natural spokesman on all sorts of occasions. Possessed of a keen wit as well as a trenchant pen he

Youth Steals Communion Sets

TOLEDO, O., November 18.—(By the Associated Press)—A youth, who had visited St. Alban's Episcopal Church ostensibly to pray, is being sought by detectives in connection with the disappearance Saturday night of a ciborium, cope and several communion sets, valued at $1,500.

The young man arose finally and asked to see the rector, the Rev. W. H. Willard Jones, but was informed that he was ill. He asked if the church did not possess some valuable silver and vestments.

"I would like to pray alone for my grandmother," he requested, and the workman withdrew.

Sunday when the Rev. Mr. Willard Jones went to the church for the early service he discovered the robbery.

This is one of the control gates on the Los Angeles aqueduct, which supplies the southern California city with water from the central part of the state. Noted Author Opens Attack In Paris To Drive Alphonso, King of Spain, Off Throne; Seeks Plebiscite

(By WEBB MILLER)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, November 18.—(By the United Press)—Vicente Blasco Ibañez, noted author, today launched his campaign to foment revolution in Spain and drive King Alfonso from the throne.

Ibañez issued a pamphlet entitled "Alfonso III Is Unmanned. Military Terror In Spain." In it the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" scathingly attacked his sovereign, charged the directory at present in control in Spain is a menace to the world and called for a plebiscite to determine whether Spain should continue a monarchy or become a republic.

Germany, Ibañez charged, is gaining a foothold in his native land under the protection of Alfonso. The author from the safety of his Paris retreat, favors French friendship with Spain.

"Alfonso must leave the soil of Spain," the pamphlet reads. "Since the war 28 kings have disappeared. Alfonso will make the nineteenth and Spain will live better."

Two million copies of the manifesto were published in Spanish and are to be distributed throughout Spain. If necessary the author says he will have them dropped from airplanes.

NEW YORK, November 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Police of the Marine Division today were scouring the seas nearby for the "Frolie," a 34 foot sloop which set out from Brooklyn Sunday morning with seven men aboard. The men expected to return before dark that night and it is feared they perished in the heavy gale that have been sweeping the Atlantic coast.

Wind and cold yesterday wrought havoc with shipping and caused death and suffering among the city's poor. Three persons died of cold and exposure.

The White Star liner Adriatic arrived several hours late, her superstructure battered by waves and coated with ice. A sailor was blown overboard and a life boat was stove in.

The destroyer Cassien of the "Dry Navy" saved the lives of six men off Montauk Point and then placed them under arrest. Later they were released.

Several trains from New York and Washington were from four to ten hours late in reaching Boston. There was one death in Boston from exposure.

Husband Claims Wife Crawled Into Furnace To Kill Self

COLUMBUS, O., November 18.—(By the United Press)—Rev. C. V. Sheatsley and his four children were summoned to police headquarters today for questioning in connection with the death of the pastor's wife, whose charred remains were found in the furnace at the parsonage.

The crime was issued by Prosecutor John R. King, who declared this case is clearly one of murder.

Rev. Sheatsley, a Lutheran pastor, and professor in Capital University, a Lutheran college here, maintains his wife committed suicide.

"The death of Mrs. Sheatsley shocked the exclusive residential district of Drexley, where her husband is pastor of his leading church.

Coroner Murphy wanted to issue a verdict of suicide and let it at that, but the prosecutor insisted that the whole thing be opened up and made the subject of a thorough investigation.

"It is ridiculous that Mrs. Sheatsley could have crawled in on that glowing bed of coals and pulled the door shut behind her," King said.

At the police station Rev. Sheatsley told the same story he had told the coroner earlier in the day.

He arrived home last night after calling on members of his flock and found his older son, Milton, a student at Capital University, where Rev. Sheatsley has a Bible class, investigating the odor of burning flesh.

The boy said he had looked in the furnace several times before his father came home but that he thought the odor came from some rabbit skins which he had burned.

Pastor Discovers Wife's Body. It was the pastor who discovered his wife's charred remains and reported to police.

Only a few bones and pieces of jewelry remained. The house was in such a burned condition that it was impossible for the coroner to determine whether the body had been backed to pieces before the cremation began.

No one was at the parsonage during the afternoon. The children were off at school and the pastor was out making calls.

Rev. Sheatsley said he had intended going hunting yesterday but stayed at home until about 1:30 p. m. because his wife appeared to be extremely nervous and he disliked to leave her.

Mrs. Sheatsley was 50 years old and her husband is the same age. They came to Columbus eight years ago from St. John's Lutheran Church in Pittsburgh.

The pastor and his four children, Milton, 20; Clarence, 16; Elizabeth, 14; and Alice, 10, appeared calm, which they arrived at police headquarters. They were haggard, however, from a sleepless night.

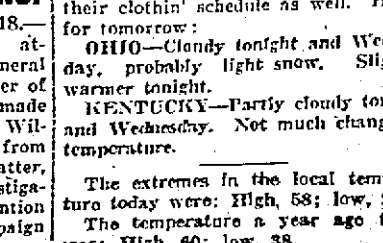

Pastor Gives Story of Tragedy. Rev. Sheatsley gave a brief outline of "what I know about this sad affair" to newspaper men before going into a closed session with his children and county and city authorities.

The pastor said Mrs. Sheatsley was a small woman and could have crawled into the furnace easily. The door was closed when he made his first investigation of the source of the burning flesh odor.

"My wife was a nervous sort," the pastor said. "She had never spoken of suicide, but apparently she was very things in her mind she did not tell me. An unusual nervousness was all I noticed about her before I left home yesterday. I asked her how she was feeling when we got out of bed in the morning and she said 'very well.'"

Chiropractic vs. 800,000 Deaths

ANSWER—Barring accidents and suicides, approximately 800,000 people died last year. Of this number more than 10,000 died of Bronchitis, 64,000 succumbed to Pneumonia, 75,000 died of Kidney Disease, 50,000 died of Respiratory Diseases, 105,000 deaths were attributed to Tuberculosis, approximately 35,000 died of Influenza, and more than 10,000 died of various Intestinal Diseases. From the Chiropractic viewpoint, only a small percentage of these deaths should have occurred. In other words, the big majority could have been prevented, had the real CAUSE of the different diseases been given corrective methods. These figures stand as an object lesson to every man, woman and child who is not enjoying perfect health. When people learn that disease is easily conquered under Chiropractic Adjustments FOR THE CORRECTION OF THE CAUSE, the death rate in our country will be reduced to a minimum. C. & O TO EXTEND LINE FROM WAVERLY TO COLUMBUS

Barrel of Paint Explodes
MIDDLETOWN, November 18.—
(By The United Press)—When a barrel of paint exploded and blew him off the bridge where he was working, Marion Gard, 22, was killed instantly here today.

An announcement from an authoritative source today was to the effect that the C. & O. was going right ahead with their plan to build their own track from a point south of Waverly to Columbus, the survey for this improvement having been completed just recently.

The C. & O. now uses the N. & W. tracks from south of Waverly to Columbus for the movement of freight over the northern branch. Heavy traffic on both lines is said to produce a congestion that can only be relieved by the C. & O. building its own line from its present terminus at Gregg Hill, south of Waverly, to the Capital City.

Extensive improvements are already being made on the northern end of the C. & O. in Pike county as big forces of men are at work putting down a double track for considerable distance. Slight cuts and fills will be necessary in places to provide a roadbed for the second track. These improvements already underway add weight to the report that the road will extend its own line to Columbus.

4 out of 5 are victims

The law of averages is immutable. Dental statistics prove that four out of every five over 40—and thousands younger too—are marked by Pyorrhea. Do you want to escape?

It takes healthy gums to keep healthy teeth

Bleeding gums are Nature's first warning of Pyorrhea. Then they begin to recede, lose that rich, pink color. Disease-breeding poisons collect in pus pockets and often drain through the entire system.

If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea, or check its progress—something ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to do. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astrigent (as used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea). It is safe, efficient and pleasant tasting. Even if you don't care to discontinue your favorite dentifrice, at least start using Forhan's once a day.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

of command in the streets. Sparks were flying to adjoining dwellings. The Hotel Wiltshire's roof was quickly affire. Here a bucket brigade saved the situation by waiting down the roof.

Other volunteer bands kept water pouring upon adjacent buildings.

Firemen came from nearby towns to assist the Atlantic City force.

At first the danger to the board walk and the famous steel pier was not recognized, but the wind caught the sparks and carried them over a fireproof block on the pier and landed them on the pier itself.

Here an additional fire spread to tax the efforts of the fire-fighters who finally won out after a six-hour battle, leaving the two hotels virtually in ruins.

500 Guests Flee To Safety

Five hundred guests at the two hotels, many in scanty attire, fled to safety through smoke filled corridors. So rapidly did the flames, which were discovered in the Bothwell shortly after nine p. m., gain headway, that by the time firemen arrived some of the guests were trapped in upper stories and had to be taken down by aerial ladders.

Many thrilling rescues were effected in freezing temperatures, guests of the burning hotels who had been overcome by smoke being carried out by the firemen.

The hotels destroyed were the Bothwell and the Senator, on Virginia avenue, adjoining the board walk. The loss here was $500,000 according to Collins, who operates them.

James W. Bennett, was one of those whose escape was cut off. He tried to climb out on a cornice and fell. Firemen climbed to where he lay helpless and carried him out in a blanket just as the flames licked their way up to his room. He succumbed in a hospital early today.

Mrs. Flick, scurrying down a corridor, tripped and fell down a flight of stairs when a dense cloud of smoke enveloped her. She broke both legs.

Five firemen were taken to hospitals and treated for suffocation and minor injuries.

Gus Karger

was no. only a first-class reporter and one of the foremost political writers in America, but his qualities of fellowship made him popular in the official circle. Presidents called him by his first name. Everybody respected his judgment and admired his personality. His struggle for life in the last few days was characteristic of his gift and courage. Even when his strength was failing to the vanishing point, he joked with his wife and family in the hope that he might diminish their worries. An operation for appendicitis and the removal of gall stones was the immediate cause of death following a strenuous trip in the west canvassing political sentiment during the campaign.

The closest friend that Gus Karger had was doubtless William Howard Taft. When the latter was president, Gus was at his elbow continuously. Being the representative of the Cincinnati newspaper owned by Charles P. Taft, Gus Karger was in a position to get exclusive information constantly. But he never capitalized that connection. Rather did he concern himself with the outgiving of news to all correspondents that would assist in making Mr. Taft better known to the country. As an adviser on politics as well as publicity, us was invaluable to President Taft.

Taft Was Karger's Greatest Hero. Coming from Ohio, Gus Karger naturally formed an intimate acquaintance with the senator from his state. Warren G. Harding and, during the latter's term as president, Karger was not infrequently summoned to give advice on matters relating to the newspaper world. There were times, it is said, when the friends of other men mentioned for chief justice were active in presenting the merits of their candidates, but Gus Karger was on the job day and night without the knowledge, of course, of Mr. Taft, but with every bit of persuasiveness at his command. And when Mr. Harding was inclined for some reason to postpone action it was Gus Karger who insisted that if the appointment was to be made it had better be made at once.

Gus Karger's greatest hero was Mr. Taft. He kept in close touch with him long after he left the White House, wrote him almost daily on affairs at Washington and loved him as a relative. Mr. Taft was a constant visitor at the Karger home.

The newspaper fraternity has lost one of its ablest men. Washington will miss his genial ways, his tact and resourcefulness in the controversies that inevitably sprang up in the everyday life of newspaper men in their battle against suppression of news. Gus Karger was a Republican conservative, a staunch follower of his party, but even Democrats will concede that no newspaper man won his way into their confidence as readily as did Gus Karger. Even President Wilson, who was not given to joking with newspaper men very much, enjoyed the jostling questions frequently directed at him by Gus Karger in the seat of the newspaper conference. Had he been a member of the cabinet or a member of the senate and house, he might have had a national reputation. But he could not have entered himself more to those who knew him here as a truly great Washington correspondent.

Railroads Must Be Prepared Always

In prosperous times and periods of business depression, railroads must be prepared to render adequate transportation service to their patrons. Whether traffic is brisk or whether it is poor, the railroads must be ready to handle it in whatever volume it may be offered.

One of the objects of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway is to provide locomotives and cars necessary to move peak business. During the latter part of 1923, when the Chesapeake and Ohio handled the heaviest traffic in its history up to that time, this railway was able to provide a hundred per cent. car supply by reducing the number of bad order freight locomotives and freight cars.

It costs the Chesapeake and Ohio $10,140,000 per annum to take care of interest, depreciation, taxes and insurance on its equipment as of December 31, 1923. That is, the Railway Company has to pay out on this account $545,000 a month and $27,750 a day. These charges are fixed regardless of the volume of business offered for movement.

Comparatively, gross tons moved one mile is a fair measure of the freight business. It represents the tonnage of freight moved, the tonnage of the cars in which it is moved, as well as the tonnage of empty cars moved to loading points.

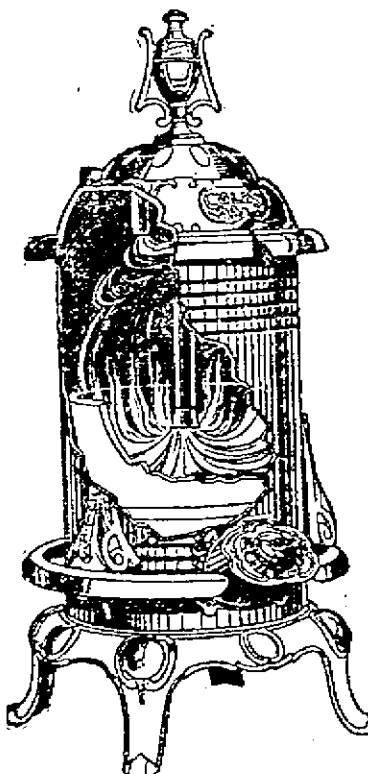

There is a wide seasonal fluctuation in gross tons moved one mile. Usually, the heaviest business is carried during the Fall months. The maximum monthly gross tons moved one mile in 1923 by the Chesapeake and Ohio was 2,401,090,000. Compared with the average monthly movement for the year, this was a gain of more than 14.5 per cent., and compared with the minimum of the year, it was an increase of 46.5 per cent., a considerable jump.

Assuming that a certain amount of equipment is required to move a certain amount of business, if the tonnage had been evenly distributed throughout the year, the traffic could have been handled with 14.5 per cent. less equipment, which would have reduced the Chesapeake and Ohio's carrying charge for a month by about $100,000, or $1,200,000 per annum.

The Chesapeake and Ohio and all other railways always must be prepared with ample equipment to move peak business, and when traffic is at its lowest ebb, fixed charges of the railroads are the same as when the maximum number of gross tons are being moved one mile.

This is one of the more important reasons why railroads cannot afford to render adequate service if freight rates are reduced as advocated by railroad-baiting politicians.

W. J. HARRIS, President,
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

Negro Is Wounded By Ashland Officer

ASHLAND, KY., was the scene of a gun battle between Police Sergeant Charles Howard and Norman, negro of North Carolina, about one o'clock Sunday morning.

The scene of the shooting was at the underground crossing at the east of Ashland. It started when Sergeant Howard, answering a complaint that a man had just been held up caught sight of the negro on the railroad tracks and ordered him to halt. Which command the negro answered with a revolver shot. Several shots were exchanged, one from the officer's gun lodging in the negro's groin. He was rushed to a hospital and today attending physicians held but little hopes for recovery. The negro is said to have regained consciousness long enough to admit that he was the man wanted in the hold-up. The officer had a narrow escape from being wounded.

Amateur Athletic Union Opens 33rd Annual Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18.—Action designed to broaden the field of the organization's activity, approval of an unprecedented array of 137 record and noteworthy athletic performances during the past year, endorsement of proposals to benefit America's future Olympic campaigns and ratification of a list of 28, 1925 championship awards, were the outstanding developments today in the opening sessions of the 33rd annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union.

The meeting bringing together leading athletic governing officials from all parts of the United States, waded through a mass of reports, statistics and routine affairs today, holds its annual banquet tonight and will close the deliberations tomorrow.

Principal among the steps today to widen the A. A. U. field of activity was endorsement of plans to ally the organization with a newly formed boxing federation among North and South American nations.

Development of general recreational and play grounds work, outlined by Murray Hulbert, reflected another avenue of A. A. U. progress while national control has taken over two new branches of sport, squash handball and indoor baseball.

Youths File Appeal In Disbarment Case With High Court

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 18.—Efforts of Frank Moore, and Howard Johnson Scott, high school football players, to prevent the Ohio Athletic Board from disbarring them from athletics were taken to the court of appeals today when an appeal bond of $100 was filed. The youths are appealing the decision of common pleas judge James S. Martin, who ruled his court had no jurisdiction.

A hearing on some of the preliminary points of the case will be held before the appeals judges tomorrow morning and a date set for a final hearing on the appeal.

Judge James S. Martin, after weeks of deliberation, handed down his decision on the action last Friday. Judge Martin said in an opinion on the case, that it was placed on the board of education, not the court, to handle the affair. He ruled that the court had no jurisdiction.

Girl Made Life Miserable For "Ketchup King", Charge

Ends Her Neuralgia—Due to Pyorrhea

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(By The A. P.)—An office boy, a chauffeur, and a stenographer were witnesses today when Miss Muriel Buell, Westchester, N. Y., appeared in Federal court as a defendant in a charge of disorderly conduct with Jefferson Livingston, "Ketchup King", and horse fancier as the complainant.

Their testimony with that of Livingston was that Miss Buell made life miserable for the millionaire; that she had walked in upon him and his friends at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria; had driven him from his automobile when it was caught in a traffic jam and had carried a gun when she visited Livingston's office to demand money.

Causes Office Scene

Miss Buell, once sued Livingston for breach of contract, declaring that he did not keep a promise to pay her $1,750 a month for life. He contended that he had settled with her for $12,500 cash.

Jo-Vex is easy to use and inexpensive. Sold on money-back guarantee by most druggists, especially Fisher and Strech, and Wurster Bros. If your dealer can't supply you, send $1.00 to the Jo-Vex Co., Akron, Ohio.

She was arrested at Livingston's Wall Street office last Thursday and taken to a police station in her own motor car after a scene which the "Ketchup King" declared the climax to a series of embarrassing episodes.

On that day, the office boy testified, Miss Buell demanded entry to Mr. Livingston's presence, saying "don't be afraid of me, little boy. I'm not going to hurt you, even though I carry a gun around."

Stripped His Pockets

The stenographer testified that she had seen Miss Buell rifling the pockets of Livingston's top coat where it hung in the reception room. When she saw the visitor extract a telegram from the coat and start reading it, said the witness, she summoned her employer, who retrieved the message.

Miss Buell's chauffeur also was a witness. She had him called into Livingston's office to see what occurred after the broker had called in his office boy and stenographer.

Livingston related that earlier last week Miss Buell had seated herself at a table at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he was dining with several guests and unannounced and uninvited, said: "Jefferson, I am hungry. I haven't had anything to eat for two days. I want some money."

He and his friends left the table, said Livingston. Miss Buell, he testified, followed him from the dining room screaming until house detectives led her away.

Made Money Demands

The traffic jam incident, as related by Livingston, caused him to flee from his automobile leaving it in Miss Buell's possession while he walked to his hotel. Then when she confronted him at his office, again demanding money, he told her to see his attorneys and called the police.

Magistrate Simpson declined the request of Miss Buell's counsel that the charge be dismissed, and the request of Livingston's counsel that she be sent to Bellevue psychopathic ward for observation. Trial will be resumed on Wednesday.

Epinaud Back Home

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(By The A. P.)—Epinaud today returned to trainer Gene Leitch's stables at Maisons-Laffitte safe and sound after vicissitudes which caused the famous French race horse at first to be refused admittance to France and treated as an undesirable.

The coolness of the French was not due to Epinaud's defects in the United States but to the fact that when he arrived at Chertburg from Southampton, he encountered the customs red tape. It was discovered that his papers provided for his arrival from the United States instead of from Great Britain. Consequently, Epinaud had to be taken back to England where new papers were drawn up. He finally landed at Boulogne yesterday and continued on to Maisons-Laffite.

Quick Relief From Constipation

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipations and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night just to keep regular. Try them. 15c and 30c. —Advertisement.

Conference Teams Close Saturday; Ohio State Will Play Illinois Eleven

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(A. P.)—Four elevens still in the running for the championship and all ten teams in action next Saturday, promise a week of strenuous preparation for the ending of the Western Conference football season.

Chicago has a definite edge in the chase for first honors, for its chance depends upon its own success, while the hopes of Michigan, Illinois and Iowa depend upon losses or ties by each of the others as well as its own victory.

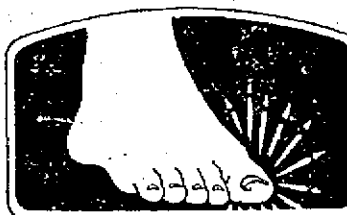

In the adage that every Big Ten school is supposed to have "one good game" in its season's repertoire, Chicago finds incentive to hustle mightily in its preparation for Wisconsin. Chicago is figured a very probable winner, but that contest shares the spotlight with the Michigan-Iowa struggle, in which the Wolverines will make a valiant effort with a chance to claim the championship.

With Harold "Red" Grange out of the game, Illinois promises to have a hard struggle against Ohio State, which has a habit of upsetting forecasts by unexpected defeats of the Illinois.

Northwestern, which for the first time in years, has a team that "fights," will oppose Notre Dame in a non conference contest but one which nevertheless is attracting unusual attention.

Ingrown Nail

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions. —Advertisement.

Four Elevens Have Chance to Win Title

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(A. P.)—The Western conference football championship race, now in the home stretch is still within the grasp of each of the four elevens leading in the season's totals today.

Chicago has the best chance, with an undisputed championship certain in case of a victory or tie over Wisconsin next Saturday, but Michigan, Illinois and Iowa could finish on top if the Badgers defeat Coach Stagg's squad.

Illinois, despite the Minnesota upset Saturday, still has a chance to go into a tie for first place, while either Michigan or Iowa could have a clear claim on the championship, depending on the outcome of Saturday's games.

Since many of the Big Ten elevens play different numbers of conference games, the season standings generally are based on the games lost and tied, and on these tie games of which there have been four in the conference this season, may depend the conference title for 1924.

A defeat for either Michigan, Illinois or Iowa, puts them entirely outside the race.

BLOOD STAINED GARMENT MAY SOLVE MURDERS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—The unearthing of a blood stained undergarment today led police to advance the theory that one of the slayers of Louis Rosen and Adolph Adelson, last Thursday, may have been wounded.

An anonymous postal card, outlining specific directions as to where to find the crimson stained clothing led detectives to Lakeview Cemetery. There, hidden in the grass, the officers found the garment which was encased in a bloody towel. A search of hospitals and physicians' offices was ordered in the hope of finding where the wounded man may have appeared for medical attention after escaping from the scene of the killing.

Charred

There was no evidence in the house of a struggle. Rev. Sheatsley said he believed his wife, who had suffered recently from nervous disorders, crawled into the furnace and pulled the door shut after her.

"I left home on an errand yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock," the pastor said. "As I came around the corner of the house to which I returned shortly before 5 p. m., I noticed a peculiar odor which I was not long recognizing as that of burning human flesh."

Meantime Milton Sheatsley, a son, had returned from his classes at Capital University. The boy said no one was at home when he entered, but that he noticed the peculiar odor and ascribed it to rabbit skins which he had thrown into the furnace.

Mrs. Sheatsley is survived by her husband, four children and two brothers, Larry and Charles Spensler, of Canton. She has been very active in her husband's church and was in charge of a bazaar which the church was to give within a few days.

Pastor Questioned by Prosecutor
Questioned at police headquarters by John R. King, the pastor stood by his original story, insisting that he did not leave the house until 1:30 p. m. Until that time he was alone with his wife he said.

King then called E. E. Bridgewater, a student at Capital University, who said he had called at the parsonage Monday morning with some Sunday school papers which he wanted to submit to Rev. Sheatsley.

"It was about the middle of the morning when I went to Sheatsley's house," Bridgewater said.

"I knocked at the front door and nobody answered."

"Are you certain that nobody was at home?" King asked.

"I can't say for sure. I knocked as hard as I could and kept on knocking, but I couldn't raise anybody."

"Then did you give it up and go away?"

"Yes, I left then, but as I was going down the steps I thought I heard somebody moving around in the basement."

"It is possible that I was in the basement when the boy called," Mr. King, the pastor interrupted. "Mrs. Sheatsley might have been in the rear of the house at the time."

King then turned to Clarence Sheatsley, the pastor's 16 year-old son, and asked him what he knew about the affair.

"I came home from school at 2:30," the boy said.

"I called for mother, but she wasn't there, so I went down and looked at the furnace just to see if there was a good fire."

"Did you notice any peculiar odor in the house?"

"Yes, and thought they were rabbit skins I had thrown on the fire."

"What did you see when you looked in the furnace?" King asked.

"Well, I thought it looked kind of funny, but I thought I'd let somebody else find it out."

"Where did you go yesterday afternoon?" King asked turning again to the pastor.

"First I went to the bank to make a deposit," the pastor began.

"Then I went to Mercy Hospital to call on a member of my church, who is ill."

"A man or a woman?" the prosecutor interrupted.

"A woman."

"All right, then where?"

"Then I called on a brother pastor and then called on two other church members at their homes and then came back to the parsonage."

Rev. Sheatsley was not nervous during the questioning save when the prosecutor appeared to be asking leading

Questions

At these times he moved uneasily in his chair.

Asked whether he and his wife had been happy together, he replied, "Yes, yes, of course, of course."

Ten-Year-Old Daughter Tells Story
The prosecutor called for Alice, the pastor's ten-year-old daughter, who had been with the police matron outside, and asked her to tell about finding the body.

"Us children all went down in the cellar with papa," she began shyly. "Papa opened the door just a little bit and looked in."

"When he turned around and said: 'Mama is in the furnace!'"

Alice began to cry and King sent her back to the police matron.

At this point, Coroner Joseph Murphy, who had been present at the quiz got up and walked out. "This is a clear case of suicide," he told King. "Mrs. Sheatsley could have crawled into the furnace after covering the fire with ashes and then could have closed the door after her. I believe that this is what happened."

(The coroner added that a bottle of poison was missing from the parsonage bath room and that this added to his belief in the suicide theory.)

Pastor Is Released
Insisting that he is as much baffled by the mystery of his wife's death as the police, Rev. Sheatsley was dismissed temporarily today after a severe grilling by County Prosecutor John R. King.

The pastor went immediately to the mortuary where his wife's charred remains which he discovered in the parsonage furnace were being prepared for burial.

Rev. Sheatsley and his four children, ranging in age from 10 to 20, were summoned to police headquarters for questioning and their stories of finding Mrs. Sheatsley's charred bones in the parsonage furnace, were all very much alike.

E. E. Bridgewater, a student at Capital University, where the pastor conducts a Bible class, told the prosecutor, however, that he had been unable to find anybody at home when he called at the parsonage Monday morning.

Sheatsley had said that he and his wife were at home alone all morning, that he left to make some calls at 1:30 p. m. and did not return until 4:30 p. m., when he noticed the odor of burning flesh and opened the furnace door to see his wife's remains smoldering in a bed of coals.

The quiz was recessed at 1 p. m. but county and city authorities would not say whether they were satisfied with

How Fire Looked From Air
This is a remarkable airplane view of the $5,000,000 Jersey City (N. J.) fire, at its height. More than 1,500 families were made homeless. It is estimated, when a dozen tenement houses were destroyed. Three large factories also were razed. Firemen from Jersey City, Hoboken and New York fought the flames for several hours before the conflagration finally was brought under control.

N. & W. TRAIN HITS TRUCK
A truck owned by the Warner-Wall Transfer Company of Fourth street and a truck load of roofing slate were damaged at 7:05 o'clock Tuesday morning when the train No. 33 on the Chillicothe street crossing just south of Eighteenth street, Carl Boggs, driver of the truck and Nelson Adkins, his helper, were injured although they remained with the big machine which was turned completely around in the collision.

Boggs was driving north on Chillicothe street and thought that he had plenty of time to get over the crossing before the arrival of the passenger train bound for Columbus. The crossing is on a section of street that is up grade and the heavily loaded truck did not make the time Boggs had figured on. All four wheels of the machine had cleared the north rail of the track when the engine caught the extreme rear end of the truck and knocked it to the west side of the paved street.

The train was in charge of Conductor M. Johnson and Engineer S. Fisher.

N. & W. TRAIN HITS TRUCK

A truck owned by the Warner-Wall Transfer Company of Fourth street and a truck load of roofing slate were damaged at 7:05 o'clock Tuesday morning when the train No. 33 on the Chillicothe street crossing just south of Eighteenth street, Carl Boggs, driver of the truck and Nelson Adkins, his helper, were injured although they remained with the big machine which was turned completely around in the collision.

Boggs was driving north on Chillicothe street and thought that he had plenty of time to get over the crossing before the arrival of the passenger train bound for Columbus. The crossing is on a section of street that is up grade and the heavily loaded truck did not make the time Boggs had figured on. All four wheels of the machine had cleared the north rail of the track when the engine caught the extreme rear end of the truck and knocked it to the west side of the paved street.

The train was in charge of Conductor M. Johnson and Engineer S. Fisher.

Solicitor Held to the Grand Jury

The preliminary hearing of William King, alias Ferguson, magazine solicitor, arrested on an affidavit containing four counts in connection with publishing and uttering a check with a forged endorsement, held in Municipal court Tuesday resulted in Judge Sprague sending the accused to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

King was taken into custody by the police following disclosures made in an investigation relating to a check in the sum of four dollars issued by J. A. Schramm, of the Arrow Ignition company, 916 Fourth street, in the name of the Trades Periodical company in payment for subscriptions to certain periodicals. The accused is alleged to have endorsed and obtained money on the check which was issued on the First National bank.

A sworn statement by O. R. Francis, secretary and sales manager of the Periodical company of Chicago, filed in court, states that the defendant, using his own name or any of his aliases, has never been authorized to use the corporate name of The Trade Periodical company at any time.

Valentino, a Big Hit at the Columbia Last Night

Every once in a while a screen star whose work has reached a definite standard of artistry, is presented in a feature, in which he outdoes all his former efforts. That is precisely what Rudolph Valentino does in "Monsieur Beaucaire," the photoplay which brings him back to the silver screen after more than a two years absence. Time has but added to his irresistible fascination so that if the feminine hearts fluttered more violently last night at the Columbia theatre, where the picture was shown for the first time, there was a mighty good reason for it.

The role of the Duke de Chartres, champion duellist and lover extraordinary, is a particularly congenial one to the handsome Valentino and the part affords an even wider dramatic scope than he has previously played including "The Sheik" and "Blood and Sand." The production has a thousand points of interest. It is one of the most extravagantly mounted historical romances, yet preserves its distinction by satisfying the eye in the matter of lavish settings and marvelous costumes without permitting them to overshadow the dramatic value of the story. As notable a cast as was ever assembled is seen in support of the star. Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson, Lowell Sherman, Doris Kenyon, all featured, and others too numerous to mention appear in the all-star cast. The story by Booth Tarkington is too well known to need retelling. It is enough to say that Forrest Halsey, who adapted it to the screen, has preserved its essential appeal and flavor. Sidney Olcott, who produced the picture version, has reason to feel proud of his efforts. "Monsieur Beaucaire" is the biggest feather in his cap, which already is adorned with "Little Old New York" and "The Humming Bird."

The winners of the various divisions will be meted and trophies and enjoy a banquet on December 12th, 8:30 p. m. at Franklin Avenue M. E. church Gym, Logan and Franklin Avenues. An excellent program is being arranged and a fine evening is in store for all the Y. Gridders.

SHIFT PLAYS ARE IN DISFAVOR WITH MANY OF THE LEADING COACHES

BY BILLY EVANS
The passing of the shift play in football is a possibility.

A score of years back Dr. Williams of Minnesota solved the now famous Minnesota shift.

It was a new and novel departure. The running of plays from a loose line proved decidedly disconcerting to the opposition.

The Minnesota shift gained much fame for Dr. Williams and many victories for Minnesota.

In recent years there have been many elaborations on the shift. Each coach with his own original ideas worked out various original formations to baffle the opposition.

When Georgia Tech was meeting such success under the coaching of John Heisman, much of the team's deception was based on plays run from shift formations.

Famous Heisman Shift
The legality of the Heisman shift as used by Georgia Tech was much questioned. Opposing teams contended that the rules of the game, off-side play in particular, was being constantly violated.

Next in line was Knute Rockne with a number of freak shifts that were executed quickly, bewildering the opposition and making big gains easy.

Four or five years ago, in a game between the Army and Notre Dame, Major Dals, then coach at West Point, disputed often with the officials over Notre Dame's shift.

A number of times he came on the field to argue the legality of the play. The game was held up by many arguments.

As I recall it, Coach Rockne of Notre Dame didn't use the shift in the second half, in order to eliminate the constant bickering over its legality.

Penalized Iowa Eleven
In the recent games between Iowa and Illinois, the shift was once more a subject for argument. Iowa, on its first play of the game, gained nine yards on a shift play.

The officials penalized Iowa for failure to come to a stop after the shift, insisting they were in motion all through the play.

As Coach Ingwersen said after the game, most of Iowa's deception was in the shift and that the failure of the officials to O. K. it, simply put his team into the air.

Ingwersen, a pupil of Zuppke, learned much of his knowledge of the shift from the famous Illinois coach.

Zuppke Passes Shift Up
It was noticeable that Zuppke's team did not once resort to the shift against Iowa. It was once a favorite method of deception for Zuppke's team.

Knute Rockne, Famous Notre Dame Coach,

Campus Full of Men Wearing Khaki Pants, Flannel Shirts

Tells How He Moulds Successful Teams

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The secret of the perennial success of University of Notre Dame football teams was revealed today by a Chicago newspaper.

A campus full of men wearing khaki pants and flannel shirts, he said, is the first step in moulding a successful team.

Notre Dame, said the expert, "forms the business end and he conducts the team."

"There is no extensive coaching system. Rockne does it all," said the reporter. "He steps out into the midst of 80 or 90 players on the field and personally direct the drill. He can hop into a line position and show a fellow what to do or take the place of any back."

"Hours and hours of drill, strategy, the absence of 'fussing' and the khaki pants and flannel shirts are the things that have made Notre Dame supreme on the gridiron," was the summing up.

RIVER NEWS

The Ohio river was at pool stage of 13.0 feet in the Portsmouth district Tuesday.

Sir Greenwood which passed down at 2 p. m. for Cincinnati, was the only packet movement today.

The Eugene Dana Smith passed down at 2 p. m. for E. A. Smith. There are at present 23 labor banks down this morning with a low of coal.

New York, intatitoyofg bf f t fb
NEW YORK, NOV. 18.—Two important sectional championships will be decided in the next games on the program which practically finishes the 1924 football season.

The Pacific coast title hangs on a game between California and southern crown depends upon the Stanford at Berkeley and the outcome of the game between Georgia and Alabama at Birmingham.

beaten on the coast, but California and Stanford are unbeaten. California has another game on New Years Day, but it will not affect the standing of the coast conference.

Georgia is now leading the southern conference, having escaped defeat by a conference team. The only blip on her record is a 7 to 6 defeat by Yale. Alabama was speeding like a sure champion until Center beat them last Saturday.

Center is no longer in the conference. Georgia has a chance to get a clear claim on the southern title by beating Alabama and then winning her last game from Center.

Notre Dame, undefeated throughout one of the hardest schedules in the country, has three more games to play, and they do not look to be dangerous.

CAUTIONS AGAINST HASTY LABOR BANKS
EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 18.—(By The A. P.)—A caution to labor organizations "against the hasty formation of labor banks" was sounded in the opening session today of the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"Labor in this new field of activity, has not passed the complete period of experimentation," the executive council of the Federation reported to the convention in its annual resume of last year's activities.

"The executive council again warns organized labor and its membership against the hasty formation of labor banks and calls attention to the need of the most careful investigation and survey of all conditions surrounding such ventures," the report said.

"The organization and operation of banking institutions by trade unions, has continued to make progress during the year. It is estimated that the total resources of labor banks in this country exceeded $60,000,000."

There are at present 23 labor banks in operation, the report revealed.

President Gompers in his annual address to the convention, appealed for strict adherence to the federation's traditional policy of voluntary action.

"We have tried and proved these principles in economic, political, social and international relations," he said. "They have been tried and not found wanting."

The American convention met in joint session today with the Mexican confederation of labor holding its annual meeting in Juarez, Mexico.

STOCK PRICES CONTINUE TO DISPLAY STRONG TONE

Buying Orders Divided Between Railroad and Industrial Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Spirited bidding for stocks in today's market carried more than 70 issues to new peaks for the year, the largest number recorded in any one session since the current upswing started. All classes of stocks participated in the advance with the rails which contributed more than a score new highs, making one of the best showing. U. S. Steel sold at 116 1/2, the highest price since 1919. The closing was strong, sales approximated 2,300,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Stock prices displayed a strong tone at the opening of today's market with buying orders well divided between the railroad and industrial shares. The Central and Missouri Pacific preferred attained new 1924 peak prices at 115 and 103 1/2 respectively. General Electric and Savage Arms each advanced 2 points. The recommendation of the K. and T. Railway that dividends be inaugurated at the $5 rate instead of $4 as had been anticipated in some quarters, apparently was well discounted, the stock yielding only fractionally.

ANOTHER HUNTER SHOT

John Durendek, 517 Winchester avenue, Sciotoville, suffered a bad wound in the right hand while out hunting Monday in the vicinity of Stockdale.

After crawling through a fence he pulled his shot-gun through and in doing so the trigger caught on the wire of the fence and discharged the gun. Mr. Durendek had his right hand on the end of the barrel and the full charge of buckshot tore away a section of the fleshy part of the hand back of the little finger.

Instead of going to a physician at Stockdale or Minford Mr. Durendek waited until he arrived in Sciotoville and Dr. J. W. Huchens attended him. The small shot passed clear through the flesh, not one being left imbedded in his hand. Mr. Durendek spent a restful night and today was suffering but little pain from the wound.

Earl Durendek, a son of John Durendek, and Pat Millhuff, hunter at Sciotoville, were in the hunting party. Mr. Durendek is employed at the Automobile Supply Co. filling station at Sciotoville.

WISE

UNCLE SAM shows his traditional generosity when it is suggested to Persia that instead of sending to Washington a check for $100,000 for expenses incident to the transport home of the body of Vice Consul Imbrie it establish a trust fund for the education of Persian youth in the United States.

The United States government imposed the funeral expense not to recover funds, but as a punitive measure for the slaying of an American official. Its honor is satisfied by the acceptance of the condition and it can well afford to turn the incident into one that will prompt friendly relations.

An outcome of the Boxer uprising in China a generation ago brought indemnity to the United States as to other nations involved. Uncle Sam instead of placing the money in the strong-box, set it aside as a trust fund for the education of Chinese in American institutions.

The money the government might derive from these coercive transactions is not nearly so important as having the liberal ideas of America planted in nations greatly in need of them.

INCREASE IN INDIANS

THE Indian bureau at Washington announces that the Indian population increased 2,619 during the past year and is now 346,962. It is considered doubtful if there were many more than that number here at the same of the discovery of America by Columbus; for though they extended from coast to coast and were the only inhabitants of the country their numbers were kept in check by inter-tribal wars, famine, disease epidemics and other unfavorable factors from which they are now free.

According to some authorities, full-blooded Indians are dying out; the increase, they say, has been among the mixed bloods. According to Dr. Atlas Hardick, curator of anthropology in the Smithsonian Institute the full-blooded Indian is passing out of existence in the United States. This authority states that a recent investigation among the Chippewas and Ojibwas of the Middle West disclosed that of 30,000 Indians only 800 claimed full Indian blood, and that careful examination showed that of the 800 only seven had a valid claim, and they were all old persons.

A BIT OF EVIDENCE

WE have referred, quite recently, to the lack of enforcement of prohibition.

Striking proof of the fact that not even ordinary intelligence is being used to that end is carried in a news item of Sunday, from Greenup county. That item relates that raiding officers had confiscated three large stills in a certain neighborhood and destroyed seven thousand gallons of beer and two hundred gallons of whiskey. The amount of beer is, most probably, exaggerated grossly, but the quantity of illicit liquor destroyed was large anyway.

Now it is notorious that innumerable bootleggers, who ply their trade in all the territory from Portsmouth to Huntington get a large part of their supplies from Greenup county. Hundreds of people, who shun moonshine as they would a quicker poison, know this to be the fact.

Why do not those individuals, whose particular business it is to know just such a condition, know as much, and more? Greenup is no vast nor remote domain. It measures about six hundred square miles and is situated just across the river from Portsmouth and thirty miles below Huntington, in each of which squads of "prohibitioners" are constantly "operating." An average of two or three times a week papers in these cities and Ironton carry stories of arrests of automobilists for having liquor in their possession. It would seem to require no keen wit to find one source of supply, especially when it is so near at hand.

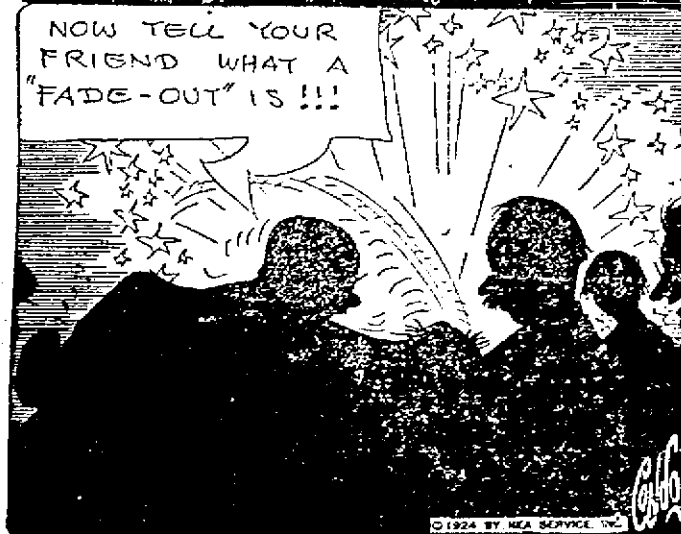

Cubans take electioneering seriously. Thus far in their campaign 11 persons have been killed and 60 wounded in political clashes.

Gould heirs appear to be dissipating the estate of the famous wizard of Wall Street faster than it was built up. Come easy, go easy.

—AND NOW, YOU SEE WHEN THEY WANT TO BRING OUT SOME PART IN THE FILM STORY THEY THROW THE PICTURE UP LARGE LIKE THIS, AND THAT'S CALLED A "CLOSE-UP"—

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Exclusive Park Avenue has a gambling parlor where high stakes are played. A fortune of $300,000 was lost there recently in a single night. The apartment is cradled in that supreme elegance that marks the millionaire.

The "capper" for the place is a well-known man about town. He has the habit of dropping in on the right crowd after it has been well wined and dined and he skillfully manoeuvres them to the rendezvous. It is he who suggests the play and by pre-arrangement always loses.

For many months no one suspected him. He has the air of benevolent good fellowship. He suggests the type that arrives at his chambers nightly in silk hat and white lined Inverness cape. One thinks of Jenkins meeting him at the door and of him setting down before a great open fire place in a silk house robe for the final Scotch and soda.

It is difficult to imagine his potent pumps are not still white under the instep. Yet back in his record is a "stretch" at Sing Sing and a "short jolt" at Joliet. Recently he is said to have won $5,000 from a well-known female singer star.

In turn, of course, he loses it to the host at another game along with some other big amount. This gives the "suckers" the idea he is a plunger eternally in bad luck. The host entertains lavishly as he can well afford to do.

There is plenty of vintage wine, a buffet repast that includes the most expensive did-bits and if the crowd remains long enough they may have breakfast that can be equalled in only a few places in New York.

The latest victim to be plucked was a young California collegiate who had inherited a half million. He thought he was getting in with the right crowd. Night after night he was plied with liquor and finally had to borrow enough money to get back home.

A little bit of Paris was transported to the block on West 51st street between Fifth and Sixth Avenue until cold weather came. This block has become a tea room district, and little sidewalk tables with bright colored umbrellas topping them were in front of each. Actors and actresses strolled there nightly to dine just as those from the Comedie Francaise go to their beloved Cafe de la Regence. Among the tea rooms on the block are the Double Door, Mury Warner, Green Tree Inn, The Blue Plate, The Beacon Light and Suzanne's.

A little second-hand music store blooms on Forty Seventh street which is, as Bill Hogg remarked, about the size of a second-hand garage. There is just room for two customers at a time. Most of the stock is in the two windows. There are recorders, saxophones, concertinas, slide trombones and mandolins, but one instrument is missing. The place is not big enough to accommodate a bull fiddle.

One of New York's big bankers suddenly discovered he had the gift of paint. He attended an art school for a few weeks to amuse himself, but he became so enthralled he is going to give up his banking career and become a portrait painter. This winter he is taking his family to Paris to reside for two years. "I never realized before what little joy there is in money making," he says. That, however, is all right to say after you've made a pile of it.

Now that New York has the lowest taxicab rate in the world, the poor old cabbies face the hardest winter of their careers. They cannot reduce rates and live. The best they can make is around $20 a week if they have a good week. One told me he hadn't made more than $9 a week over expenses for a year. (Copyright, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Doc Koko's KOLUM

THE LIGHTED CANDLE

There is one grave men name Oblivion
That hath no boundary nor measurement,
Only the faint sounds of the Past are blest
In the far echo of its antiphon;
Millions unmarked of Time now sleep
The quiet of its breast in mute content
Who knew earth's folly and Fame's blandishment;
The rainbow's end—when all is said
and done,
And yet, and yet, men love their little
The day's turmoil and sweet ecstasy,
Plunge into battles with their splendid strife
Wearing such crowns as circumstance shall say,
In mast'ring hope against all
mystrary,
Because, forsooth, it holds the gift called life.
—Minnie Ferris Hauenstein.

BETTER EGGS

NO TRESPASSING

The wife and daughter of Colonel Berry, camp commander, came to the gate after taps and demanded admission. The sentry objected. "But, my dear man, you don't understand," expostulated the older woman. "We are the Berry's." "I don't care if you're the cat's whiskers," retorted the sentry. "You can't get in at this hour."

A DIRTY DIG

Rae: I hate the sight of him. He's the rudest thing I know. When I was talking to him the other day he yawned at least a dozen times. Mae: Are you sure he was yawning dear? He may have been trying to say something.—Everybody's Magazine.

ONLY FOR THAT

"Do you approve of women making up?"
"For lost time, but not for lost looks."

HIS OBJECTION

"It takes a snail about ten days to go a quarter of a mile," said Mrs. Bentover, in the midst of her readings.
"If you're going to read," returned Farmer Bentover, "don't read any more about hired men. I'm sick of the whole subject."

HER IDEA

"I was in court today when a lady lost her suit, and—" began Farmer Fumblegate, upon his return from the county seat.
"And I s'pose you set right there and watched her till they put you out, you shameless critter!" cried his wife.

DAD SET RIGHT

Reggie—I hope you stuck up for me when your father said I was a lorn fool.
Reggie—Indeed I did! I told papa success in that line is entirely due to your own efforts.

THE NEW BABY

Six-year-old Mabel came over to her little neighbor's the morning after the great event.
"I have a little brother now and you haven't," she boasted to Beatrice.

In haughty tones her playmate returned: "That's nothing! The doctor came to our house first; but my dad and I wanted a little sister."—Everybody's Magazine.

He is under treatment at a hospital, but his condition is not serious.

WOMAN BLAMED BY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Beatrice Rosenblum, widow of Albert R. Rosenblum, real estate salesman, whose body was found last night in a side street off Wilshire Boulevard, believes a woman shot and killed her husband.

The young widow today told of a recent quarrel with her husband over another woman to whom she said he was attentive.

"We separated for a time," Mrs. Rosenblum said. "My husband going to a downtown hotel. Then there was a reconciliation and he came home. He had no enemies and no business troubles," the widow said.

Back From Ironton

Attorney Harry W. Miller is back from a business trip to Ironton. Rosenblum's automobile was found parked on a downtown street yesterday morning where it was left by the slayer. In it was his checkered cap, torn and bloody.
